

Dehydrated skin, Aged skin

Common features:

- The skin appears thin, very dry, and rough.
- The epidermis is parched with a fine powdery look.
- The skin lacks elasticity and may be deeply wrinkled.
- Irregular pigmentation and age spots are often present.
- The capillaries are not sufficiently protected, and the skin easily becomes red.

Contributing factors:

- Weakening of sebaceous glands due to aging
- Smoking
- Use of certain medicines
- Insufficient protection against environmental factors, above all sun and wind
- Lack of moisture in the air (especially in winter)
- Prolonged use of aggressive cleansing products with a drying effect
- Aggressive and harmful cosmetics (e.g. skin bleaching products)
